Adis has been publishing high quality journals, focusing on translating research into clinical practice, for over 40 years.

The portfolio contains a range of broad-scope and specialist titles with a key focus on evaluating new and established drugs, from their performance in clinical trials through to their place in therapeutic practice. The content is relevant to anyone involved in drug development, regulation, medical research or practice.

Readers turn to Adis when they need the most comprehensive and objective, evidence-based information and as a result, Adis archive content is still highly used and cited.

Your institution can now have full, uninterrupted access to this collection through a one-off purchase of the Journal Archives.
