

Leave the lake water behind

Invest your time to drain the water from your boat and gear before you leave to stop the spread of aquatic invasive species.

Join other anglers to drain every possible drop!

Using bait buckets and livewells?
Drain the lake water to prevent the spread of invasive species and pack clean water to save your bait.

Pulling your drain plug protects our waters, preserves fishing experiences for everyone, and is the legal way to leave the launch.

You might be surprised by how much water your motor can hold. Start your cleaning routine by lowering your motor to drain water and any tiny invasive species inside.
