

Online Resource 3 Daily germination rate of A. mataranus subsp. ancashensis. Seeds showing visible radicle emergence were scored as germinated. Germinated seeds were counted in five biological replicates ($n > 40$ seeds each) over nine days. The germination rate was calculated as the number of germinated seeds divided by the total number of seeds. The grey shaded area represents the standard deviation.

