SUNDAY: DELIBERATION DAY

9:00 am – 10:30 am Facilitated Deliberation – Jurors will begin to formally address the questions posed to the jury aided by a facilitator

- In this session the jury will have an opportunity to have a facilitated discussion about what they thought of the evidence presented by the experts on Saturday. This will also be a good time to raise any additional questions and share your initial impressions about the question.

10:30 am – 12:00 pm Open Deliberation – Un-facilitated and open discussion between jury members

- In this session the jury will deliberate on the question among themselves without input from a facilitator. The aim will be for the jury to begin to formulate some shared conclusions or recommendations in response to the main question, and to discuss their reasons for these. The jury's conclusions or recommendations will be compiled with the help of a facilitator in the final session (below). Ideally the jury should try to reach consensus, however if consensus is not achieved then a vote will be taken in the final session on any points of disagreement.

12:00 pm – 12:45 pm Verdict on the jury questions and opportunity to provide other recommendations.

- In this session the facilitator will assist the jury to report on their final verdict in response to the main question, formulate any recommendations they may wish to make, and to identify the reasons for their conclusions. A vote will be taken if the conclusions or recommendations are not unanimous.
