

Beauty alone is insufficient: female mate choice in the barn swallow

Ecological Research

Masaru Hasegawa¹

¹ Department of Evolutionary Studies of Biosystems, Sokendai (The Graduate University for Advanced Studies)

Corresponding author: Masaru Hasegawa (perorobomusadiobe@gmail.com)

Fig. S1. A male barn swallow, Hirundo rustica, collecting mud to repair an old nest in his territory.

