Research Project: “Saying Yes to Life”

Thank you for your interest in this survey. Your views will help us understand how people's thoughts about environmental and social issues are shaped by the Archbishop of Canterbury's Lent book “Saying Yes to Life” by Ruth Valerio. Findings will be shared with Lambeth Palace, SPCK and Tearfund.

The research

This survey is designed to be completed before or in the early stages of interacting with "Saying Yes to Life". You are invited to contribute to this study by responding to some questions about your thoughts and opinions about the environment and sustainability. We are looking for people who are engaging with the book “Saying Yes to Life” in some way: perhaps by reading it, discussing it in a small group, or using the associated online resources. The information you provide will help to understand how your views might change over time, and will aid in the development of future resources on this topic. This questionnaire should take about 10 minutes to complete.

Who is running the project?

The project is led by Dr. Christopher Ives (School of Geography, University of Nottingham). The project will adhere to the University of Nottingham's Code of Research Conduct and Research Ethics.

Do I have to take part?

Your participation is entirely voluntary, and even if you decide to begin the survey you are still free to stop at any time and without giving a reason. You are free to request that any information you have provided be destroyed, even if you have completed only part of the survey.

What will happen to the information I provide?

The survey is completed anonymously and any written responses used in written and published output will not be personally identifiable. Any personal information (e.g. e-mail addresses) will be used only by the research team and not distributed further. Information will be stored securely on password protected servers hosted by the University of Nottingham. All treatment and storage of data will adhere to the University of Nottingham's Data Protection Policy and Guidelines.

How will the research be used?

Summarised information gathered from the research will contribute to the writing of academic journal articles and will be shared with Tearfund. Results may also be presented at academic conferences and other University settings.

Are there any risks to me participating?

It is not anticipated that completing this survey will expose you to any personal risks, however some of the questions ask you about your beliefs, values in life and your lifestyle. If you would rather not answer these questions you may leave the survey at any time.

Want to know more?

If you have any questions or comments, please email me at chris.ives@nottingham.ac.uk

Research Project: “Saying Yes to Life”

Thank you for your interest in this survey. Your views will help us understand how people's thoughts about environmental and social issues are shaped by the Archbishop of Canterbury's Lent book “Saying Yes to Life” by Ruth Valerio. Findings will be shared with Lambeth Palace, SPCK and Tearfund.

The research

This survey is the second of two surveys designed to understand people's thoughts and experiences related to engaging with “Saying Yes to Life”. This particular survey should be completed after you have finished reading the book or working through related materials. The information you provide will help to understand how your views may have changed over time, and will aid in the development of future resources on this topic. This questionnaire should take about 15 minutes to complete.

If you have completed the preliminary survey, you may notice that you are asked a number of the same questions again. While this may seem strange, it is important that you do complete these questions as your answers will help us to understand the degree to which “Saying Yes to Life” has, or has not, shaped your views.

Who is running the project?

The project is led by Dr. Christopher Ives (School of Geography, University of Nottingham). The project will adhere to the University of Nottingham's Code of Research Conduct and Research Ethics.

Do I have to take part?

Your participation is entirely voluntary, and even if you decide to begin the survey you are still free to stop at any time and without giving a reason. You are free to request that any information you have provided be destroyed, even if you have completed only part of the survey.

What will happen to the information I provide?

The survey is completed anonymously and any written responses used in written and published output will not be personally identifiable. Any personal information (e.g. e-mail addresses) will be used only by the research team and not distributed further. Information will be stored securely on password protected servers hosted by the University of Nottingham. All treatment and storage of data will adhere to the University of Nottingham's Data Protection Policy and Guidelines.

How will the research be used?

Summarised information gathered from the research will contribute to the writing of academic journal articles and will be shared with Tearfund. Results may also be presented at academic conferences and other University settings.

Are there any risks to me participating?

It is not anticipated that completing this survey will expose you to any personal risks, however some of the questions ask you about your beliefs, values in life and your lifestyle. If you would rather not answer these questions you may leave the survey at any time.
