

Association between lactate and 28-day mortality in elderly patients with sepsis:
results from MIMIC-IV database

Liudang He^{1*}, Donghua Yang^{2*}, Qiong Ding^{2*}, Yingjie Su¹, Ning Ding^{1*}

*The authors equally contributed to this research.

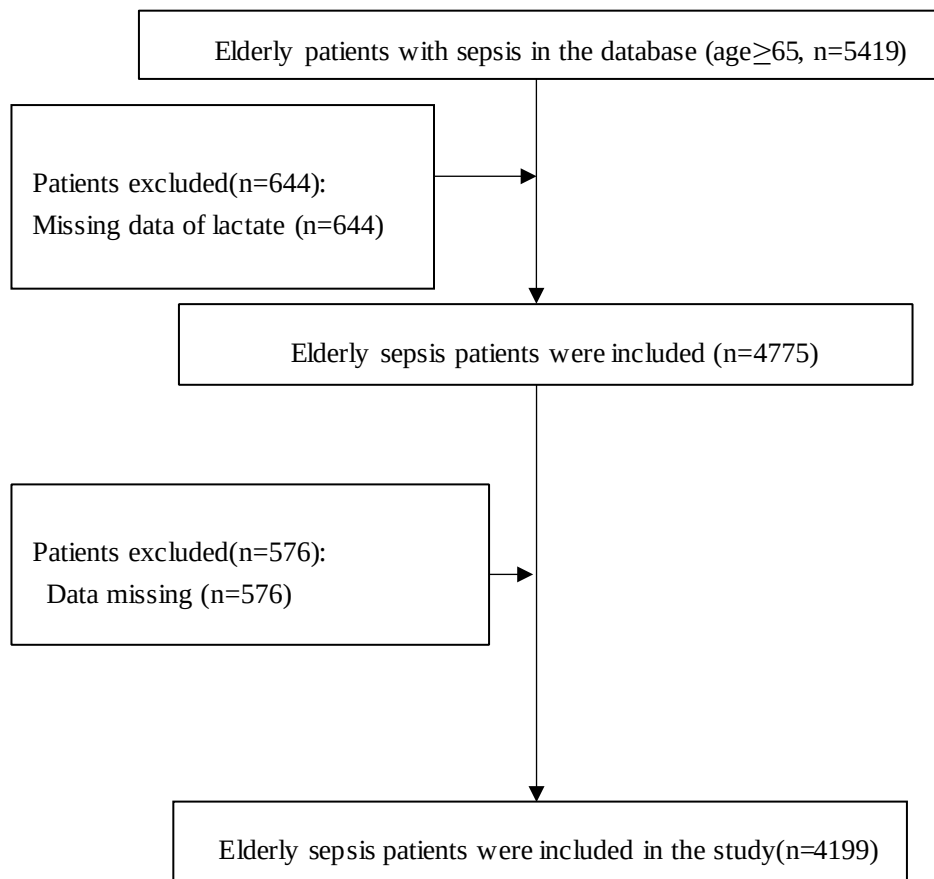

¹ Department of Emergency Medicine, The Affiliated Changsha Central Hospital, Hengyang Medical School, University of South China.

² Department of Nursing, The Affiliated Changsha Central Hospital, Hengyang Medical School, University of South China

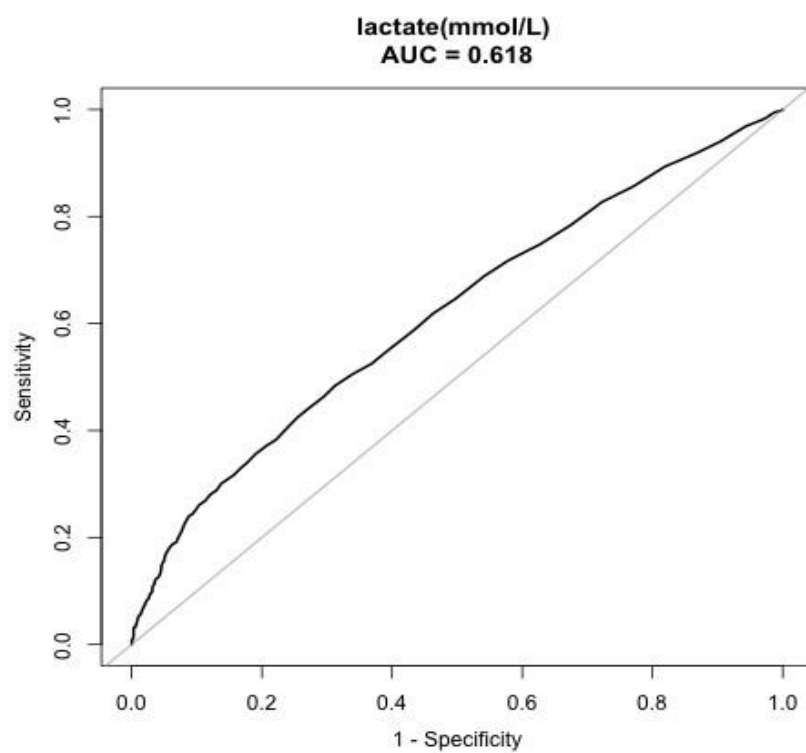

†Correspondence should be addressed to:

Ning Ding, Department of Emergency Medicine, The Affiliated Changsha Central Hospital, Hengyang Medical School, University of South China, NO.161 Shaoshan South Road, Changsha, Hunan, 410004, China. Tel:\(+86\)731-8566-7935; E-mail : doctordingning@sina.com/2018050531@usc.edu.cn

ORCID ID:0000-0001-7805-2191

Supplementary Figure 1: Study design and patients enrollment.

Supplementary Figure 2: ROC of lactate for predicting 28-day mortality.