

Title: Supplementary Movie 1

Description: Naturally occurring chorus radio waves in space consist of two bands in frequency, and each band consists of rising-tone emissions. They are widely publicized as “Earthsong”. This video shows a dynamic spectrogram of chorus waves recorded by NASA’s Van Allen Probe, with a cursor indicating the time position of the audio track.