Supplementary Figure 1: Representative results from samples assayed to isolate infectious MPVX. A. Optical microscopy images of Vero E6 cultures inoculated with swab samples. Images were taken at the day post infection (dpi) indicated in the top left part of the images. Scale bars correspond to 100 μ m. Viral isolation was done only once due to sample availability B. Confocal microscopy images of cells where swab samples were grown after intracellular staining with the anti-vaccinia pAb revealed with an Alexa 488 secondary antibody from the cultures. DAPI staining is shown in blue (nuclei) and α -Vaccinia is shown in green. Scale bars correspond to 20 μ m. Viral isolation was done only once due to sample availability C. Percentage of positive cells detected by FACS after intracellular staining as described in B. Sample with asterisk denotes that it had to be sub-cultured again as primary culture exceeded 95 % of CPE which precluded proper FACS analysis. D. Mean fluorescence intensity of positive cells detected by FACS after intracellular staining as described in B. Sample with asterisk had to be sub-cultured. Source data of C and D are provided as a Source Data file.

Supplementary Figure 2: Gating strategy of Vero E6 cells FACS analysis shown in Supplemental Figures 1 C-D. Panels show gating of living cells, non-infected cells stained and used to set up the boundaries of positivity, a positive control infected with an isolated viral stock, and a positive isolated sample (66).
