

Figure S4. A problematical case found during an experimental core structure extraction from the Enterobacteriaceae dataset. The left-side region next to the yjdC gene is probably a part of a genomic island, and was finally removed by the procedure that eliminates locally non-conserved regions in step 5 of the CoreAligner procedure.