

- a. Working conditions have worsened, and talented workers migrate to the private sector or to other countries.
- b. The motivation of workers has deteriorated.
- c. Productivity and quality may have deteriorated.
- d. The uneven ratio of specialists to primary physicians has not changed.
- e. The uneven distribution of personnel (hospital and urban bias) persists.
- f. Corruption has not decreased.