

Additional Figure 3 - Nucleotide levels profiles as a function of the extracellular glucose from experiments with sinoidal temperature cycles (Δ), linear temperature shifts from 30 °C ($\circ$) or 12 °C ($\times$) and from batches at different temperatures ($\square$). The error bars refer to the standard error of two duplicate samples from at least two independent runs of experiments. The different colors indicate the temperature of the sample.