Note: The data for each sample street included 5 weekdays and 2 weekend days for a total of 7 days, and the different types of physical activity were recorded in units of 0.5 h for each street for a total of 12 time points in the morning (7:30–9:00), midday (11:30–13:00) and evening (16:30–18:00)

The researchers used cameras to spot video the crowds passing within the sample streets and automatically extracted the number of physically active people and artificially classified them through Baidu's foot traffic statistics platform (<https://cloud.baidu.com/product/body/num>). The website interface is shown in the figure below
