I hereby confirm that I have personally contributed to the translation and proofreading of the document in question. My objective throughout this process has been to maintain the highest standards of academic writing. While I have made every effort to ensure the accuracy of the translation and to reflect the original meaning of the text faithfully, I cannot guarantee absolute perfection. Nevertheless, I affirm that my work on the translation and proofreading complied with the principles of academic integrity, and to the best of my knowledge, no moral, ethical, or legal violation occurred in the process.
