Regarding: Consent for California Health Sciences University (CHSU) Photo Use in article published in the BMC Journal

To the Editorial Board of BMC Journal,

As of the date of this letter, the university hereby grants Dr. Joseph Lin and the BMC Journal our consent – a perpetual and non-exclusive license - to use a photo (attached within the email accompanying this letter), that is intellectual property of the California Health Sciences University (CHSU) in the manner set out below:

1. The photo will be included in an article titled, “Medical Students’ Experiences of Mixed-Reality-Based Anatomy Instruction in a Non-Cadaveric Curriculum: A Qualitative Case Study,” written by Dr. Joseph Lin, et al, and published in the BMC Journal.
2. The photo should include the following caption or footnote in the article that reads, “Photo Courtesy of California Health Sciences University (CHSU).”
3. Use of the CHSU photo does not signify any endorsement of the views expressed by Dr. Lin in the article or journal in which the article is published.
4. Permission is revocable by CHSU with 60 days advance notice regardless of cause.
5. The consent to use the photo is not exclusive. It is understood that CHSU may permit other parties or publications to use the photo.
6. The permission to use the California Health Sciences University (CHSU) photo is granted only for Dr. Joseph Lin and the BMC Journal. It can not be assigned, sublicensed, or otherwise transferred to any other party without the express, prior-written approval of CHSU.

Best regards,
