

Medication and patient safety

When the project "Rätt Läkemedel" was completed five years ago, managers at hospital clinics and primary health care centres were interviewed regarding how they perceived the implementation of medication review and medication report. The aim of this study is to evaluate how these practices are applied today, and if the implementation can be considered successful. This is a follow-up study, and collected data will be used for internal purposes, but also in research on implementation/patient safety in collaboration with Linköping University. Any published research data will be presented so that no individual can be identified.
