

Approved by Medical Ethics Committee of Gansu Provincial Maternity and Child-care Hospital

[2018] The Ethics Committee of Gansu Provincial Maternity and Child-care Hospital No.(29)

Project name	Synergistic effects of vitamin and trace element intake on maternal and infant health during pregnancy
Project source	Biostime Maternal and Child Nutrition and Health Research Project, Maternal and Child Health Center, Chinese Center for Disease Control
Apply for department	Medical genetics center	Project leader: Baohong Mao	The title of a professional post: Associate chief physician
		Major player: Yawen Shao	The title of a professional post: Associate chief physician
		Head of department: Yanxia Wang	The title of a professional post: Chief physician
Participating unit	Gansu Provincial Maternity and Child-care Hospital
The medical Ethics Committee approves the opinion	Approval result: The ethics Committee reviewed and discussed the materials submitted for review, participated in the voting 33 people, agreed: 21 votes; Make the necessary amendments to agree: 0 votes; Disagree: 0 votes.
	The Medical Ethics Committee decided in this review: ☒ Agree ☐ Agreed with necessary modifications ☐ Review again after modification ☐ Disagree ☐ Termination or suspension

	Committee review comments and recommendations: ①This study has scientific research value and is supported and approved. ②The research protocol, research design and informed consent content meet the ethical requirements. ③The relevant technology has been approved by the superior competent department for clinical research access, in line with the medical management standards of the research. ④Relevant regulations and technical operation norms should be carefully implemented, and indications should be strictly mastered to ensure medical safety. ⑤After completing the safety and effectiveness evaluation of technical projects, timely report the summary materials; In case of serious adverse reactions, the test should be terminated and the situation should be reported in time. Chairman: Qing Liu (Signature) Medical Ethics Committee of Gansu Provincial Maternity and Child-care Hospital
--	--